

Mystified About Wine?

New Online Wine Magazine AWineStory.com Educates with Video, Audio, Articles and ...Wine Tarot Card Readings

New York, NY, June 12, 2008 -- Imagine yourself hosting a dinner at a restaurant for clients or special friends. The sommelier hands you a wine list and panic sets in. What to order? Will your choice go well with the cuisine? What if your guests don't notice the expensive choice you made, or worse, think you are cheap?

You are not alone – over 75 million wine drinkers in America experience anxiety when choosing wine. “AWineStory.com helps viewers relax as they learn about wine through video, audio, and colorful articles so they can have fun in the process,” says Marisa D’Vari, founder and publisher.

In addition to video interviews with famed winemakers such as the late Robert Mondavi, the site features video interviews with famed chefs such as Charlie Palmer and Daniel Boulud, downloadable podcasts of wine seminars, reviews of affordable wines, and fun features like a 3-card wine related Tarot reading.

“Storytelling and entertainment is a crucial part of what AWineStory.com is about,” says D’Vari. “Stories bring color, drama, and excitement to what many consider an intimidating subject. On the site viewers can laugh, relax, and learn in comfort.”

This month on AWineStory.com, viewers can experience the following highlights:

- *A video interview with Master Sommelier Emmanuel Kimiji.
- *A review of the Le Nez du Vin wine aroma training kit.
- *An in-depth exploration of the Nantais region of France’s Loire valley.
- *Wine Review of under-$20 Sauvignon Blancs
